Summary

A pangolin scales trafficker arrested in Cameroon with 3 leopard skins and 331 kg of pangolin scales. The pangolin scales were packed in 32 sacks and found in several storerooms during the crackdown on a regional criminal group. He was arrested in a dangerous neighbourhood known to be hiding several wildlife traffickers in Cameroon's capital city. The arrest is part of an intricate investigations into this major criminal group that has tentacles in the Central African sub region and in Nigeria.

A trafficker arrested and a mandrill rescued in Cameroun. He is a city council worker with connections to high officials in a popular seaside resort town in Cameroon. The female was found chained to a very inhospitable cage and placed in open space at the residence of the trafficker. She was immediately released and moved to the Yaounde zoo for further care.

A trafficker arrested and another mandrill rescued in Cameroon. The animal was weak, fragile and mal-nourished. A cord that was tied around the waist of the little female inflicted injuries on her and left a gaping wound. Immediately, the rescue team released the animal of the unbearable chain and instant first aid measures applied. This is the fourth baby mandrill the Team has rescued this year.

A convicted trafficker who was on the run, arrested in Congo. The fugitive was sentenced to a 2-year prison sentence earlier this year. He was one of two traffickers arrested in October 2019 with a leopard skin. Both were unfortunately released on bail in November 2019 and they never returned to face trial. One is still on the run.

3 traffickers arrested in Côte d'Ivoire with 2 tusks. The traffickers were arrested in their car on a small discreet street where they were about to carry the transaction. They arrived with the tusks concealed in a bag inside the trunk of the car. They confessed trying to sell the tusks weighing 23 kg to another trafficker who is on the run.

Cameroon – LAGA

- A pangolin scales trafficker arrested with 3 leopard skins and 331 kg of pangolin scales. The pangolin scales were packed in 32 sacks and found in several storerooms during the crackdown on a regional criminal group. He was arrested in a dangerous neighbourhood known to be hiding several wildlife traffickers in Cameroon's capital city. The arrest is part of an intricate investigations into this major criminal group that has tentacles in the Central African sub region and in Nigeria. It could provide a trove of valuable information into the ring that involves several traffickers including some closely related family members. The trafficking ring had regularly been sending huge quantities of pangolin scales to Nigeria. Some of its members are based near the Cameroon, Gabon,

THE EAGLE Network

EAGLE: Eco Activists for Governance and Law Enforcement, is a network of members across Africa, who are replicating effectively a program and operational model to undertake wildlife law enforcement, which is based on the LAGA-Cameroun model, trailed, practiced and tested since 2003. The EAGLE Network currently operates in nine African countries and keeps expanding.

The over-arching objective of the EAGLE Network is: Developing civic activism and collaborating with governments and civil society to improve the application of national and international environmental legislation, through a program of activities: investigations, arrests, prosecutions and publicity. Through this, EAGLE aims to generate a strong deterrent against the illegal trade in wildlife, timber and related criminal activities, including corruption.
